

Grandfather Mountain Gaelic Song & Language Week 2012

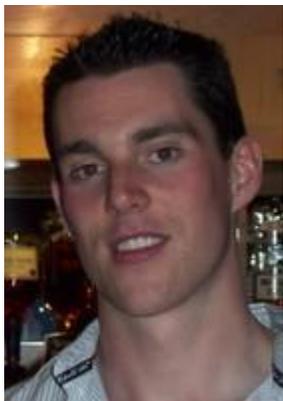

Come to the beautiful mountains of North Carolina, a state rich in Gaelic heritage. Enjoy Scottish Gaelic language classes for beginner, intermediate, and advanced speakers and singing classes covering a range of traditional Gaelic song forms, including waulking, or milling, songs and mouth music.

This year's Grandfather Mountain Gaelic Song and Language Week will run from July 8th through the 13th. The course will consist of language and song classes at graduated levels. Other activities include special interest sessions in the afternoon, an evening cèilidh, Gaelic videos, a silent auction, hikes in the beautiful surrounding mountains and the North Carolina Gaelic Mòd which is held during the Grandfather Mountain Highland Games the weekend following. Many of our attendees stay the extra day or two and participate.

The workshop is housed at Lees-McRae College in Banner Elk, North Carolina. Information about the cost of tuition, room, and board is available on the Registration Form.

We are pleased to announce the following instructors for 2012:

Alasdair Whyte

Alasdair Whyte was brought up on the island of Mull, where he took an interest in Gaelic song from an early age. Following his initial education at Tobermory High School, he gained a CertHE Cùrsa Comais from Sabhal Mòr Ostaig in 2005 and then an MA in Gaelic and Celtic Civilisation at the University of Glasgow, graduating with first class honours in 2009. Alasdair won the gold medal at the Royal National Mòd in Dunoon in 2006 at the age of 19. In November 2010, he was employed by the University of Glasgow on the Digital Archive of Scottish Gaelic project. Since September 2011, he has been studying for an MRes in Celtic Studies at the university, concentrating on the place-names of Mull. Alasdair is one of the rare breed of composers of new Gaelic songs. He recorded four songs in an album of new compositions entitled Oran Ùr Do Mhuile in 2009 and his own debut album is to be released in the summer of 2012. Alasdair has performed in many venues in Scotland as well as throughout Europe and recorded for a number of Gaelic TV programs. Over the past couple of years, he has been performing with Mary Ann Kennedy & Na Seòid.

Michael Mackay

Michael Mackay began studying Scottish Gaelic in 1997 and has become fluent through the help of ACGA-sponsored events and through the teachers and native speakers he has met through the organization. He has appeared on the BBC Radio nan Gaidheal station for occasional news interviews on Aithris na Maidne and the Coinneach Mòr program, and contributes to the Internet podcast program Gaelcast, together with Liam Cassidy and Ed Bradshaw. Michael has been teaching Gaelic to students across the country, both on behalf of ACGA and via Skype on the Internet. We're especially proud of him, though, for his second-place finish in the Traditional Singing competition at last year's Royal National Mòd of Scotland.

Andrea Kluge

Andrea Kluge will be teaching our beginning course in Gaelic this year. A Gaelic learner herself, Andrea studied Gaelic for a number of years in Edinburgh before moving to the Isle of Skye to further her studies at Sabhal Mòr Ostaig, the Gaelic College there. She finished her BA in Gaelic last year and is currently employed fulltime at the College while pursuing a further honour's year part-time. In true Highland fashion, Andrea wears many hats at Sabhal Mòr, acting as a tutor for the first year students in Gaelic, organising and leading Gaelic conversation groups, running the café at the college, and working the phones two nights a week for the Gaelic distance learning courses through Foghlam Fad Beatha (Lifelong Learning). In addition to her other duties, Andrea has served as an ambassador for the College, promoting the College at conferences and other venues. In her role as ambassador, she would be happy to answer any questions you have about the courses and programmes of study at Sabhal Mòr Ostaig.
